Meet Meld Merge Forum II: Arts Bringing Communities Together, Yea, May 26

CDN recently co-ordinated this one day forum in Yea with community agency Berry St. More than 70 people attended and enjoyed heartfelt discussions about the way communities and individuals have used the arts as a recovery tool in relation to catastrophic events - in particular, bushfires. Keynote presenter Anne Riggs spoke of her work and research in recovery from trauma, and local artists and artworkers reported their experiences and artistic plans and hopes for the future.

Detailed report available here

New research report with contributions from CDN:

'Developing and Revitalizing Rural Communities Through Arts and Culture: international research project' has recently been published. This comprehensive review of research on cultural and creative business development in rural communities includes information from Canada, Australia, the United States, and Europe to assist rural communities to take best advantage of their creative capacity. Conducted by Dr. Nancy Duxbury and Heather Campbell at Simon Fraser University's Centre for Policy Studies on Culture and Communities, Vancouver.

The report includes contributions from international collaborators:

- Kim Dunphy, Program Manager, Cultural Development Network

- Dr. Patrick Overton, Director, Front Porch Institute, Oregon, USA
- Dr. Lidia Varbanova, Laboratory for European Cultural Cooperation, Amsterdam; and the Centre for Intercultural and Social Development, Montréal (reviewing Europe)

The four papers, accompanying case studies, extensive bibliography and summary highlighting common themes and recurring critical ingredients to foster vibrant arts activity in rural and small communities are available from

OVERSEAS

'Agenda 21 for Culture' in Local Government celebrates its fifth anniversary

Coordinator Jordi Pascual, from Barcelona, Spain, (keynote speaker at CDN's 2007 conference) provides this update.

The Agenda 21 for culture, approved on 8th May 2004, is the first document that advocates for cultural development by cities and local governments. United Cities and Local Government (international peak body for local government) adopted the Agenda 21 for culture as a reference document for its programs on culture and assumed the role of coordinator of the process. The Committee on Culture of UCLG is the meeting point for cities, local governments and networks that place culture at the heart of their development processes. Several cities throughout Australia have become signatories to this exciting international initiative. The Committee on Culture expresses a sincere gratitude to all the persons and organisations that are working together in this endeavour. More information
